ABOUT your instructor...

Roy Hunter is the published author of several books, and an experienced trainer recognized Internationally with a strong background in hypnotherapy. Hypnosis for Inner Conflict Resolution: Introducing Parts Therapy (Crown House Publishing, 2005) is considered by many professionals to be the best parts therapy book available. In addition to teaching professional hypnosis and advanced techniques to professionals, he also teaches self-hypnosis and Creative Daydreaming to groups and clients for personal or professional motivation, and has a private practice.

Roy's presentations include numerous workshops both in the USA and abroad, for groups and businesses as well as for international hypnosis conventions. Besides practicing hypnotherapy since 1983, Roy started teaching professional hypnotherapy in 1987.

His two hypnosis texts, The Art of Hypnosis and The Art of Hypnotherapy (previously published by Kendall/Hunt Publishing) were acquired by Crown House Publishing in 2010. Both books are available at Roy's website.

The professional hypnosis training course Roy wrote and developed is currently taught by other instructors. Roy was inducted into the International Hypnosis Hall of Fame in April, 2000 for his written contributions to the field of hypnotherapy, and is a Fellow and charter member of the Association of Professional Hypnosis and Psychotherapy.

The 5 Phases of Regression Therapy

WHY should YOU spend two days learning Regression Therapy

(Program Description):

Client centered regression therapy is a proven technique for helping clients to discover and release the causes of various problems.

Some professionals already employ this profoundly beneficial technique, taught and practiced by well known hypnosis instructors for decades.

Competently facilitated regression therapy often helps clients overcome common fears and anxieties even when other techniques have failed to provide lasting results.

Roy has organized regression therapy into five phases, making it easy to learn and teach. This workshop is experiential, and is a MUST for any hypnosis professional who is concerned about the risk of false memories.

WHAT you will learn...

What client centered regression is
When to use regression therapy
Which problems can often be alleviated with regression therapy
What is leading vs. guiding?
Why it is so important to avoid inappropriate leading
How to avoid inappropriate leading, and the potential consequences of leading
What each phase is, and why each phase is important
How to explain regression therapy to your clients, and why such explanation is needed
How to enhance lasting success
What are possible explanations of past life regressions?
Participants will have break-away practice sessions.

Client Centered Parts Therapy

WHY should YOU spend two days learning Parts Therapy

(Program Description):

How can you effectively help the client who struggles with an inner conflict? PARTS THERAPY is often the best technique for lasting results! When a client fails to respond to regression therapy, that client may be a prime candidate for parts therapy or one of its variations.

Some professionals already employ this profoundly beneficial technique taught and practiced by the late Charles Tebbetts. When competently facilitated, parts therapy often helps people get past barriers when other techniques are insufficient. However, there are pitfalls that must be avoided in order to maximize results for your clients.

This workshop is experiential, and is a MUST for anyone not totally familiar with parts therapy or one of its variations.

WHAT you will learn...

What parts therapy is
When to use parts therapy
Why parts therapy is best for some clients
How to use parts therapy (complete step-by-step process)
How to explain parts therapy to your clients, and why such explanation is needed
Why it is so important to be an objective mediator
How to avoid inappropriate leading, and the potential consequences of not doing so
Why Roy Hunter added important updates on the Tebbetts Methods
How to avoid common pitfalls that could put clients farther away from success
Participants will have break-away practice sessions.
